All our yesterdays had good and bad, positive and negative which are parts of history that is worthy to cherish. Hence, these yesterdays are utilized for the present to do the best of himself or herself. Thus, if future comes, this will lead to become the best version of oneself.

My experiences here in Taiwan for over a year have been so challenging. As an adage goes, life is like a sandwich – the more you add to it, the better it becomes. The challenges I encounter become who I am today because of my determination, hardwork, and perseverance that I endure despite yearning, nostalgia and pains. However, the most difficult part of these challenges is discovering who I really am in this field I enter and who I will become after this. Like a ship always steering from one island to the other in fjords of destinations.

In this Taiwan's journey, courage is not an image to face these challenges but it is my will to embrace them wholeheartedly. I humbly believe that I learn to appreciate life, value little things, and treasure these experiences for the rest of my life. I can say that I am now changing and improving, though it is hard to perfect perfections. Yet, I live my story in the eyes of certainty.
